

Alert from the NDEWS Web Monitoring Team: Online mentions of Cyclorphine

What was found? Cyclorphine entered Reddit discussion in mid-March. Discussion has trended upwards since then, although the volume of discussion is still relatively low compared to other opioids.

What is Cyclorphine? Cyclorphine is a recreational drug that is being advertised as a "benzimidazolone derivative with potent opioid effects, around 4 times stronger than fentanyl."

How is it being discussed? The majority of Reddit users caution against cyclorphine due to a lack of knowledge as well as advertised potency. Experience reports from online discussions characterize cyclorphine as heavily sedating, similar to protonitazepyne. Commenters frequently compare to fentanyl, but is describe cyclorphine as being more similar to "zenes." Insomnia is noted as a side effect by some discussants.
